Usage Instructions

- Since we're using a free service from Google for converting the images, the system is limited to working on maximum 50 images a day.
- Since the app is hosted on Streamlit, a free service, it does not have any background processing capabilities, i.e. the browser tab has to be kept open when being used. It can be minimized, but do not close it while images are being processed.

- The below dialog can be used to upload images.

- Try to upload all images together, you can select multiple images at a time. Only 50 images would be allowed in a single set.

- Once uploaded, the app will show the following dialog.

- It will show the number of images already completed, and display everything once done. Please be patient, in worst case scenario, an image can take upto 5 minutes to process.

- Once completed, the app will show the following.

- You can click on each dropdown to see the uploaded image, and the generated image side by side.
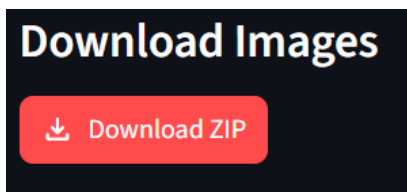

- You can hover over a particular image to see the option to view it in fullscreen.

- If any image does not meet the requirements, or has any issues, you can try to regenerate that particular image. It will only regenerate that particular image.

- You can download all images as a compressed file by just clicking the download button.

- If the app has not been used for a few weeks, it will be put to sleep to save system resources, you just have to click the button asking for the app to be set up again, and it will restore it in a few minutes.

- Because we are using a free tier service from Google, we have a limited number of conversions a day. The limit of 50 images is set so as to be able to use the app without any major issues. If an issue is faced, the app will allow you to download the already generated images and not be able to process any images further, until the next day.
